

The Pennsylvania Budget and Policy Center (PBPC) (www.pennbpc.org) seeks a dynamic new director with policy, communications and leadership skills. PBPC is the primary source of independent tax and budget analysis and communications in Pennsylvania advocating for revenue adequacy, tax fairness, and programs that benefit low- and middle-income families. In the current U.S. context, the PBPC Director position offers one of the best opportunities in the country for a committed mid-career progressive to make a difference, with regular access to Pennsylvania's most influential policymakers and to highly respected national networks of policy experts. PBPC is a project of the Keystone Research center (www.keystoneresearch.org). PBPC offices are located in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Policy and leadership experience required. Advanced degree in a policy-related field preferred. Salary commensurate with qualifications. Comprehensive benefit package. Screening for first-round interviews will begin July 10, 2015. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Detailed job description on line at <https://pennbpc.org/pbpc-job-opportunities>. To apply, submit a resume and a 1-2 page cover letter to jobs@pennbpc.org (the subject line of the e-mail should read PBPC Director); or to Stephanie Frank, frank@keystoneresearch.org; 717-255-7181.

PBPC is also seeking a Budget and Tax Analyst. The Budget and Tax Analyst has primary responsibility for researching and writing PBPC's research products and also serves as a spokesperson with the media. Advanced degree in a related field preferred. Five-to-seven years of experience in government or a nonprofit policy organization is a plus.
